Joshua has established a convincing personal style in composing in a Latin American genre. Joshua should continue to increase his understanding of score conventions and extended techniques for the external composition core. His documentation of the compositional process in his portfolio was rigorous. Continuing to further develop new material by applying the compositional techniques as studied will allow for growth in future works.

Music Extension students have been immersed in challenging and rigorous performance-based content to assist them in realising their potential as performers. Joshua is a highly accomplished musician who displays outstanding technical skill and execution of complex repertoire. His analysis of "Toccata" by Debussy articulated sophisticated understanding of the concepts of music supported by relevant musical excerpts and independence of thought. Continuing to maintain this high standard of performance and critically evaluating future performance opportunities will be beneficial for future results.
